

Piru Queen Palm

Arecastrum romanzoffianum
Piru Queen Palms grow with thicker, harder trunks, greener fronds & fuller crowns. These palm trees are hardier to both heat and cold.

Pineapple Palm

Phoenix canariensis
This large, robust palm is commonly called a pineapple palm, because it looks like a pineapple during the first decade of its growth.

Date Palms

Phoenix Dactylifera
These are the big marquee palm trees you see in shopping centers, business, malls, and amusement parks. These add instant appeal and class anywhere they're planted.

Mexican Blue Palm

Brahea armata
A very rare palm, these are originally native to the Baja Peninsula of Mexico. Extremely well adapted for just about the entire Western U.S.

Sago Palm

Cycas revoluta
Sago palms add a fantastic and organized look just about anywhere they're planted. Plant multiple specimens for a tropical look.

Triangle Palm

Dypsis decaryi
Triangle Palms, a native of Madagascar, are a rare and unique palm not often found in Arizona. These beauties are capable of setting your landscape apart from the rest.

Pygmy Date Palm

Phoenix roebelenii
This is the best selling dwarf palm in Arizona nurseries. Plant just about anywhere a tropical splash of flavor is wanted!

Bismarck Palm

Bismarkia nobilis
Bismarck Palms produce a very large and wide reaching frond with a blue-green tint for a unique look impossible to find anywhere else.

Pindo Palm

Butia capitata
This interesting palm is rapidly becoming popular with folks searching for something a little different. It's very easy to plant and grow, handling the extreme summer heat very well.

Sabal Palm

Sabal palmetto
Sabal palms can be used in a wide variety of landscape styles from tropical and sub-tropical to Mediterranean styles.

Foxtail Palm

Wodyetia bifurcata
Foxtail Palms produce a long reaching, puffy and wide frond similar in look to its namesake. Foxtail Palms are for an amazing tropical look you won't get anywhere else!

Phoenix Reclinata

The Phoenix Reclinata, named for the network of reclining, curved fronds it displays, adds the formality and elegance of the traditional date palm with a free flowing and unique shape

Mediterranean Fan Palm

Chamaerops humilis
This dwarf palm usually features multiple trunks, but can also be grown as a single trunk palm. Great for planting in small areas.

Mexican Fan Palm

Washingtonia robusta
This is one of the bestselling and easiest to grow palms. Mexican Fan Palms can be used to add a southwestern, tropical flare to just about any landscape.

Windmill Palm

Trachycarpus fortunei
This small to medium size palm is one of the most cold and hardy palms available in the market. Windmills provide an excellent tropical appeal wherever planted.

Rhapis Palm

Rhapis excelsa
Unique palm has many trunks which give it a look similar to bamboo. Vibrantly dark green, star-shaped fronds create a tropical effect anywhere they're planted.

Needle Palm

Rhapidophyllum hystrix
Needle Palms are a small and slow-growing accent palm widely prized for the clumping style growth rarely seen in palm trees.